Q1: Read the text carefully, and then, answer the questions below.

Sherlock Holmes is the most famous detective in fiction. He was created in 1887 by British author Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who wrote four novels and 56 short stories involving Holmes and his partner, Doctor Watson. Since then, over 120 authors have written Sherlock Holmes stories.

The London detective has also starred in more than 200 films and has been played by over 70 actors. There have been Sherlock theatre and radio plays, TV programmes, children's cartoons, comics and video games. Even the word 'Sherlock' is used for someone who makes brilliant deductions.

But Sherlock wasn't the first fictional detective. That honour belongs to Edgar Allan Poe's creation C. Auguste Dupin. Holmes' first case, 'A Study in Scarlet,' wasn't written until 46 years after Poe's 1841 story 'The Murders in the Rue Morgue'. In fact, Dupin was created before the word 'detective' even existed.

Another inspiration might be Maximilien Heller. It is not known if Doyle read this 1871 novel by Henry Cauvain, but like Holmes, Heller was a brilliant private detective who used science and logic to find clues and solve crimes, puzzles and mysteries. Also, like Holmes', his adventures were narrated by a doctor. Was Holmes based on Heller? Perhaps. Make your own deductions.

1. Who created Sherlock Holmes and when was he introduced?
2. How many stories did Doyle write about Sherlock Holmes?
